THE Numb. 484.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and

From Thurſday October 31, to Thurſday November 7,

An Extract of a Letter from the Hague, dated Sept. 3.

WE are fully convinced by the Intelligence which we have lately receiv'd here, that the Notion of a French Expedition againſt Great Britain, in Favour of the Pretender, is far from being chimerical, there being actually a Commotion in the North Weſt Parts of Scotland amongſt the Highlanders, in order to pave the Way for it, and the utmoſt Pains is taken there to obtain Arms and Money: That if a ſpeedy Stop be not put to this Inſurrection, no Body can tell where it may end. It has likewiſe been intimated to us, that the Impriſonment of Marſhal Belliſle and his Brother, would not ſo ſoon and ſo eaſily have ended, but for the repeated Repreſentations which were made to his Britannick Majeſty upon that Subject, ſetting forth, that beſides the Umbrage which the Stay thoſe Priſoners made in England gave the Allies of the King, it was exceeding dangerous for two Perſons of ſuch artful and intriguing Genius as the Belliſles were, to continue in his Britiſh Dominions, eſpecially at a Time when the Enemies of the Crown were endeavouring to raiſe Diſturbances in the Kingdom; that therefore it grew extremely neceſſary to ſend them away, and that with the utmoſt Expedition. To theſe Repreſentations the King readily yielded, and in Conſequence thereof, gave Orders, that the Marſhal and his Brother ſhould be releas'd with all convenient Speed; and that in the mean Time they ſhould be treated with the utmoſt Civility and Politeneſs, to the End that they might entertain an advantagious Idea of the Behaviour of the Engliſh; which Orders of the King were exactly obeyed, and they were even complimented ſo far before their Departure, as to be told, that they had diſcovered ſuch good Diſpoſitions during their Abode in England, that if it were poſſible to bring about a happy and ſpeedy Peace, it would be choſe, that they ſhould be the Inſtruments of effecting it, preferable to any others. Tho' this Letter is dated in Holland, it ſavours much of the French Taſte.

Extract of a private Letter. Oſtend, Aug. 26.

The French having formed a Reſolution to deprive the Queen of Hungary of this important Port, managed their Deſign with ſuch Circumſpection, that the Place was inveſted on the 7th of this Month, at a Time when we leaſt expected it, and when moſt People here thought the Danger quite over. On the 9th, they opened the Trenches within Cannon Shot of the Place. On the 11th, they began to fire from a Battery to the North of our Port, by which they extremely incommoded all the Veſſels that either came in or ſailed out. On the 17th, they unmask'd two others on the ſame Side, one of which pointed directly to the Mouth of the Harbour, and the other entirely commanded the Road, ſo that no Veſſel, either great or ſmall, durſt approach us, at leaſt in the Day-Time; by which our Communication with England was entirely cut off. Beſides theſe three Batteries, the Enemy had a fourth, on the ſame Side, conſiſting of ſix Mortars, from which they played upon us continually.

On the Side of the Gate of Nieuport, which was that of the Attack, they puſhed their Approaches with ſuch Vigour, that their Batteries were in a Condition of playing by the 18th, in the Morning, and by the 22d, our Palliſadoes were in a Manner covered with the Earth thrown out of their Works. About eleven that Night, they attacked the covered Way from the Front of their Works, and in Flank by the Dike towards the Sea. This was performed by 30 Companies of Grenadiers, with ſuch Vigour that they ſoon became Maſters of ſome Places of Arms, and made Priſoners a Captain, 2 Subalterns, and 70 private Men. The Count de Chanclos being informed of this, order'd the Baron de Sterndahl, to take immediately the Picquets of the Reſerve, in order to drive the French from the covered Way, before they had eſtabliſhed themſelves. This was performed with the greateſt Chearfulneſs and Succeſs, and the Enemy were diſlodged, with the Loſs of between 4 and 500 killed and wounded, and of 3 Officers and 30 private Men made Priſoners. The Loſs of the Beſieged amounted to 190 Men or [illegible] On the 23d in the Morning [illegible] was concluded for two Months, [illegible] Men, and keep the Ports.

The Garriſon had hold of the Ope[illegible] Paſſage of War, on which all the [illegible] unſeaſonable, that moſt of the Cannon [illegible] mounted, that they had none to ſupply their Place, that the Ramparts, which were of a very bad ſort of Turf, were almoſt intirely ruined in ſeveral Places, and that conſequently they had no Choice to make but of this Alternative, Whether they ſhould ſecure the Honours of War by an immediate Surrender, or for the Glory of defending the Place three or four Days longer, determine with themſelves to become Priſoners of War. Theſe Reflections induced the Members who compoſed this Council, to think the firſt Method moſt expedient; they therefore demanded a Capitulation, and Hoſtages being exchanged, it was agreed the Garriſon ſhould march out on the 27th, to the Army, with two Pieces of Cannon, two Mortars, and all the other ordinary Marks of Honour. The Capitulation being ſign'd, the French took Poſſeſſion of the Gate of Nieuport, by ſending thither two Companies of Grenadiers.

The Artillery which the French have employ'd in this Siege, conſiſts of 56 Pieces of heavy Cannon, and 24 Mortars: Their Loſs, according to their own Account, amounts to 17 Officers, and 1000 private Men killed. On the Side of the Allies, there have been three Officers killed, 4 wounded, and 430 private Men killed and wounded. General Moſk embarked in the Night of the 17th, with the Huſſars and Hanoverians, in order to go to Flushing, and from thence to the Army; but one of the Tranſports, which had 34 Hanoverian Horſes on board, ſunk in our Port by a Bomb breaking on Board her, there were alſo ſome Huſſars killed and wounded, during the Time of their embarking, which as I told you before was in the Night, but Day breaking before it could be entirely concluded, about 19 of them were left behind.

This to the beſt of my Knowledge, is a fair and circumſtantial Account of what has happened during the Siege; and whatever People in other Places may ſay, I dare venture to aſſert, that no Troops in the World, under like Circumſtances, could have made a braver or a better Defence. Count Lowendahl himſelf acknowledged this, and when he ſigned the Capitulation, ſaid, Conſidering the Condition the Place is in, and the Eaſe with which we might ruin the remaining Works, I might very well juſtify refuſing ſome of your Demands; but after ſo good a Defence, I think you deſerve whatever is in my Power to grant.

Hague, Auguſt 27. O. S. In Regard to the Requiſition lately made by Mr. Trevor, the Britiſh Miniſter, their High Mightineſſes have reſolved, that the Succours which the Republick is oblig'd by Treaties to furniſh, for the Defence of his Britannick Majeſty's Kingdoms, ſhall be ſent over as ſoon as that Monarch pleaſes to call for them. In Conſequence of this Reſolution, Orders are iſſued for drawing out of the Provinces the Number of Troops neceſſary, and equipping the Men of War that are to be furniſhed for the King of Great Britain's Service. The Generals that are to command the Body of Troops deſign'd for England, are not yet nominated. Many pretend, that this Corps will conſiſt of the Troops that were in Garriſon at Tournay and Oudenarde. That the Abbe de la Ville having got Scent of the Deſign, made Repreſentations to the State about it, pretending that ſuch a Step would be abſolutely againſt the Capitulations of thoſe two Towns; but that this Miniſter was anſwer'd, That France having declar'd ſhe had no Hand in the Project of the Pretender, who, beſides, is not as yet looked upon, nor known to be an Ally of that Crown, the Republick, in ſending the ſaid Troops to the Aſſiſtance of his Britannick Majeſty, reckon'd ſhe ſhould not be guilty of an Infraction of the above mentioned Capitulations. It is ſaid, that the French Miniſter has been exceedingly nettled and diſconcerted by this Anſwer.

Some private Letters from Italy ſay, that at a Conference for the Exchange of Priſoners, the Count de Gages offered his Sardinian Majeſty very advantageous Terms, and a Ceſſation of Arms for a Month, provided Alexandria, Ceva, and Tortona, were immediately evacuated; to which the King anſwer'd, That it would be time enough to think of ſuch a Ceſſation when thoſe Places were taken, and perhaps not then.

All our Letters from France aſſert, that the News of the taking Cape-Breton, had thrown them into the utmoſt Conſternation, more eſpecially after it was known that an Engliſh Man of War had landed 600 Priſoners of War at Rochefort. We have received an Account that all the Fortifications of the City and Citadel of Tournay, except the Wall round the Town, are demoliſhed, and that the Garriſon conſiſts of no more than three Battalions of Militia.

Paris, Auguſt 30. We expect the King here next Week. We hear two Ships ſailed lately from Breſt, with Arms and Ammunition, which, 'tis ſaid, are for the Pretender's Son.

From the London Gazette, Auguſt 31.

Hague, Sept. 7. N. S. This Day their High Mightineſſes, upon his Britannick Majeſty's Miniſter's Application to them, for the actual Marching and Embarkation of the 6000 Men of Dutch Troops deſigned for Scotland, immediately granted his Demand, and diſpatched Orders to the reſpective Regiments compoſing the ſaid Body, to repair with all poſſible Speed to Willemſtad, where Tranſports are ready to receive them. They are to be commanded by Count Maurice of Naſſau; and to embark by ſingle Regiments as faſt as they arrive there, without waiting the one for the other. Yeſterday about Noon, Lord Harrington proceeded to Helvoetſluys, there to wait the King's Arrival, which will be this Evening, his Majeſty having paſt Maeſlandſluys about One of the Clock. Mr. Trevor ſet out thither this Afternoon, as did the Foreign Miniſters, who follow his Majeſty to England, Yeſterday and this Morning.

LONDON, Auguſt 27.

The Irwin, Capt. Millar, from Gottenbourg to Dumfries, was taken near the Iſland of Skie by a French Privateer of 18 Guns and 80 Men, the 8th Inſtant, and ranſom'd for 650 l. She had taken three more Veſſels.

From the Camp at Spalenalotha in Bohemia. Whether it be that our Patrols have not met with any of the Enemy's Men theſe ſeveral Days paſt, or that the advanced Guards on both Sides are really ordered to take nothing, it is certain that every Thing has been very quiet in our Camps as well as in that of the King of Pruſſia; which Inaction countenances more than ever the Report, that we are at the Eve of a Peace with the Court of Berlin; But Men of Senſe give no Credit to that Report, and maintain that a few Days will ſhew that we are as far as ever from ſuch a Peace. In the mean time our Army has been ſo well reinforced by new Regiments and Recruits from Moravia, Bohemia and Hungary, as well as by the Men recovered from Sickneſs, that not only our former Loſs no longer appears, but even the Muſter-rolls ſhew that the Army is much more numerous than before the Battle of Friedberg.

From Genoa, The Engliſh have lately made Prize of a large Ship bound hither from Liſbon, in which there was a conſiderable Quantity of Gold, which will be certainly claimed by ſome Merchants reſiding at Leghorn; yet, from the Pain expreſſed here, more eſpecially by ſome Members of the Government, we greatly ſuſpect, that the aforeſaid Claim will be found inſufficient.

London, Auguſt 31. The Tranſports, with Part of the Garriſon of Oſtend, arrived in the River from that Place Yeſterday Morning. 'Twere to be wiſh'd all our Troops were brought over from Flanders.

Our Army continues in the old Camp near Vilvorde; and they are preparing at Bruſſels for a vigorous Defence, ſhould they be attacked.

Some Letters from Paris of the 27th ſay, that a ſtrong Squadron has ſailed from Breſt, and will be joined in the Iriſh Sea by that which ſailed from Ferrol.

On Wedneſday Sir Hector Maclean, and his Accomplices, were examined ſeveral Hours before his Grace the Duke of Newcaſtle, Secretary of State for England, and the Right Hon. the Marquis of Tweeddale, Secretary of State for Scotland.

By the Mail from Liſbon we have Advice, that the Goes, a Dutch Man of War, Capt. Sappius, of 60 Guns, and his Majeſty's Ship the Shoreham, James Oſborne, with a large Fleet of Merchant Ships from London, laſt from Plymouth, arriv'd at Liſbon the 7th of Auguſt, N. S. and that on the 16th following the Shoreham ſail'd on a Cruiſe. On the 21ſt of Auguſt his Majeſty's Ships the Dragon, Capt. Watſon, and the Kennington, the Hon. George Edgecomb, were in Port at Liſbon, as were alſo the Hardwick, Capt. Sampſon, the Great Britain, Capt. Williams, two Privateers of 40 Guns each, belonging to London.

There is Advice that the Sarah, Hadley, from Carolina, is taken by a French Privateer, and carried into St. Malo's.

DUBLIN, July 27.

Extract of a Letter from an Officer of the Scots Royal in Flanders, to another Officer here, dated July 9. O. S.

"The Royal was detached with that Body that was order'd to reinforce the Garriſon of Ghent, under the Command of General Molck, with the Regiments of Bligh, Handyſide, and Sir Robert Rich's Dragoons, and a detached Body of Auſtrians and Hanoverians; they advanced on the great Cauſeway that leads to Ghent, where they met with a large Body of French, which they vigorouſly attacked and defeated, making themſelves Maſters of all their Artillery and Pontoons; but this Conqueſt was not long enjoyed; for a Reinforcement of freſh Troops, to the Number of 18 Battalions, coming up, obliged them to retreat, which they effected, after they had made a brave Reſiſtance, cutting their Way through the thickeſt of the Enemy, notwithſtanding their ſuperior Number, and got into the Gates of Ghent betwixt eight and nine at Night. The Dragoons were ſeparated in the Engagement, and retired to Aloſt; but they could be of no Service, as the Country was cloſe and covered.

In this Action, ſeveral of the Officers, beſides a great many private Men, were kill'd and wounded. Amongſt the killed was Lieutenant Bain; and amongſt the wounded, were Captains Graat, Cunningham, Dalrymple; Lieutenants, Patterſon, Elliot, Nairn, Innas, and Sir David Baird, all of the Royal; which Regiment ſo diſtinguiſhed themſelves by this Behaviour, as to obtain the publick Thanks of the ſaid General, who alſo repreſented their Merit to the Duke of Cumberland and Count Koniſegg.

Dublin, Auguſt 24. Their Excellencies the Lords Juſtices require and command all Officers of his Majeſty's Forces ſerving in this Kingdom, to repair immediately to their reſpective Poſts.

On Wedneſday laſt ſome Experiments were made by Order of the Right Hon. Lord Viſcount Moleſworth, Maſter of Ordnance; by which it was found, that a 6x Pounder, when ſtak'd ſo as to be prevented from recoiling, ranged her Shot as far, at the ſame Degree of Elevation, with a Charge of two Pounds of Powder, as with the ordinary Charge of three Pounds, when at Liberty to recoil: A Diſcovery which may prove of infinite Service, as a great deal of Powder may thereby be ſaved; and, at the ſame Time, the Diſcharge made with greater Expedition, and much more Certainty and Exactneſs. From the Caledonian Mercury, Sept. 6.

Extract of a Letter from London. We hear ſome Part of the late Garriſon of Oſtend is come into the Thames: At the ſame Time they tell us, that the whole Garriſon is carried by the French to the Allied Army; it conſiſted of the Britiſh Regiments of Skelton, Harriſon, Scots Fuzileers, Arco's Regiment of Dutch, and two Companies of Auſtrians, in all 3600 Men, of which about 500 had been killed or made Priſoners. The French loſt, by the brave Defence made by the Garriſon, 3000 Men.----The Garriſon of Newport in Flanders certainly demanded to capitulate laſt Thurſday, but the Terms they demanded were rejected.----I am informed the City of London will addreſs the King on the preſent Poſture of Affairs. The Election of the Emperor of the Romans was certainly fixed to the 4th of September.

On Tueſday Night an Expreſs arrived from London, adviſing, That his Majeſty was returned from Abroad; which glad Tidings were notified next Day at 9 o'Clock by a Round of great Guns from the Caſtle. The Magiſtrates immediately ordered the Muſick Bells to play, and all other Teſtimonies of Joy to be obſerved.

The Inverneſs Poſt, who arrived Tueſday Night, declares, That General Cope arrived at Inverneſs on Thurſday Evening; That when he left Inverneſs on Saturday, his Excellency lay encamped at that Town.----This Poſt was, in Athole, taken up by the Highlanders, and brought before the young Pretender, at Blaircaſtle, with whom the Lad converſed. The Highlanders opened his Mail, and took out ſeveral Letters, which they retained; but promiſed to tranſmit them hither with the firſt Opportunity; and otherwiſe he was civilly uſed.

An Expreſs is arrived from General Cope at Inverneſs, who came by the Low Country Road, adviſing his being very well; and we hear his Excellency had ſtole a well-concerted March upon the Highland Hoſt.

Capt. Rogers, one of General Cope's Aides de Camp, arrived here from Inverneſs late on Wedneſday Night.

That Day a Brewer's Servant prying too anxiouſly into the Fortifications of the Caſtle, was taken up as a Spy and committed to Priſon.

General Hamilton's Regiment of Dragoons decamped on Wedneſday from St. Anne's Yards, and marching to Lochbank (or Beardford's Parks) pitched their Tents on the Side of the North-loch, hard by the Caſtle of Edinburgh.

The Magiſtrates of this City ſent that Day ſeveral Carts loaded with Muſquets, Bayonets, &c. to Leith, in order to arm all the Inhabitants againſt all Events. The Train'd Bands of this City not only do Duty in the Parliament-houſe, but alſo ſtand Guard at all the Gates, and patrole about the Streets the Night long; ſo that the Peace of this City and the Neighbourhood is effectually provided for. The Magiſtrates conſtantly attend them; nor is any Gentleman allowed to drink above one Chopin of Ale.

We are hourly in Expectation of ſeeing ſome Tranſports in the Frith, having aboard ſome Part of the 6000 Dutch Troops deſigned for the Uſe of the Government, and we hear Orders are given for preparing Quarters for 1000 of them at Leith.

The Troops from London arrived Yeſterday in the ſeveral Ports of the Frith; and there came along with them an Officer, 2 Serjeants, and 19 Gunners, Matroſſes, &c. from Woolwich, who Yeſterday entered the Caſtle of Edinburgh. They are well cloathed in Blue, fac'd with Red.

The Ships that are arrived from London, bring along with them between 5 and 6000 Stand of Arms; above a Dozen Cart-loads of which were Yeſterday Night brought up from Leith, and ſent up to the Caſtle.

An Expreſs has brought Advice, That 400 Highlanders took Poſſeſſion of the Town of Perth laſt Tueſday Night; and we learn that Bodies of them are coming down into Fife, and that they have ſent Letters to ſeveral Perſons requiring them to attend their Standard; ſo that ſeveral People are retiring hither with their Effects, while others are ſaid to have joined the Highlanders.

A Gentleman of Glaſgow writes to his Friend here, 'Write me all your 'News; all ours is Fears of the Highlanders croſſing the Upper-Forth, and 'coming up to us. We are naked and defenceleſs, and have not yet re-'ſolved to arm, in Defiance of the Laws.'

It was Yeſterday Night reported, that the Highlanders had totally decamped from the Blair of Athole and marched off, but whither is not poſitively ſaid; ſome pretending to the South, others to the North, &c.

We were told Yeſterday, that a Detachment of the Highlanders had come near Dundee, and that theſe People ſeemed reſolute.----May the Lord avert a Civil War, and powerfully protect our dear native Country, which has often been ſignally bleſſed, and particularly of late with a Series of moſt fine Weather, to reap the Fruits of the Earth.

Yeſterday was ſtrictly obſerved here in Faſting and Prayer; and the Miniſters who officiated were very zealous in exhorting their Audiences to beſtir themſelves in Defence of the Government, and all that's valuable.

A Letter from the Neighbourhood of Dumfries, dated Auguſt 30th, ſays, 'I ſend you a Piece of News which you may abſolutely depend upon, viz. 'The Covenanters round Dumfries have been privately arming ever ſince they 'heard of the intended Invaſion. They are regimented to the Number of '3000, have got 2 or 3 Standards painted in Dumfries, which many have 'viſited: On one Side is a flaming Sword, repreſented as guarding the Thiſtle, 'with a Crown above it; the Words over the Sword Jehovah-Niſſi, and 'above the Crown and Thiſtle theſe Words, The Covenanted Work of Re-'formation. They expect ſoon to increaſe, which we gueſs from their having 'beſpoke ſeveral more ſuch Standards.'

BOSTON, September 23.

Upon Advice of the French Squadron's intended Viſit to Cape Breton, and a Complaint that his Majeſty's Ships in the Harbour wanted Men, we hear, that five or ſix hundred of the Garriſon went immediately on board voluntarily, and the Ships were anchored at the Harbour's Mouth, ready to put to Sea on the firſt Advice of the Enemy's Approach.

On Saturday a Sloop arrived in 7 Days from Louiſburg, by whom we are informed, that they had heard nothing more of the French Squadron, tho' they had very late Advices from Newfoundland, Annapolis Royal, &c. ſo that it was feared the Monſieurs had got Intelligence of the Surrender of Louiſburg, and were gone to Canada or the Weſt-Indies, or elſe put back to France. Newport, Rhode-Iſland, Sept. 20.

Several of our Jamaica Fleet are arrived, who report, that they met two Privateers of St. Kitts, commanded by the Captains Purcell and Rouſe, going to Jamaica, who had taken, after a ſharp Engagement, (in which they loſt above 30 Men) two Spaniſh Regiſter Ships, one of which was ſaid to be worth 160,000 l. Sterling.

The 30th paſt, being the Anniverſary of His Majeſty's Birth-Day, was obſerv'd in this City, with great Rejoicing: In the Morning the Flag was diſplay'd; at Noon there was a tripple Diſcharge of the Cannon, and at Night the Houſes were illuminated; His Majeſty's, the Royal Family's, Succeſs to his Majeſty's Arms, and all the Loyal Healths, were cheerfully drank; and the Evening concluded with great Demonſtrations of Joy and Loyalty.
